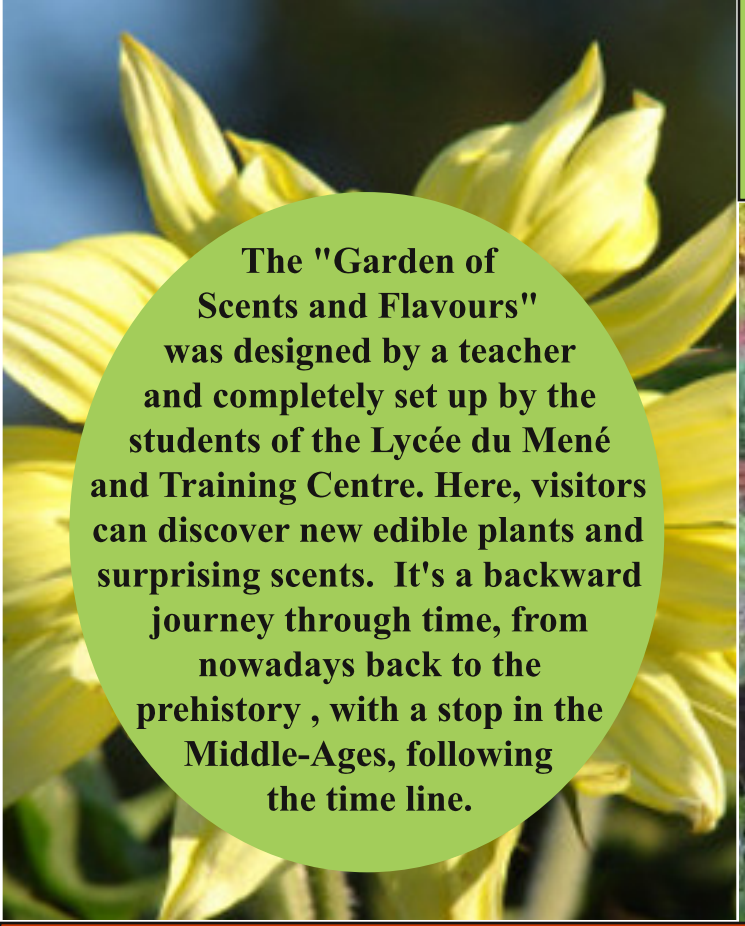
The Garden of Scents and Flavours



The "Garden of Scents and Flavours" was designed by a teacher and completely set up by the students of the Lycée du Mené and Training Centre. Here, visitors can discover new edible plants and surprising scents. It's a backward journey through time, from nowadays back to the prehistory , with a stop in the Middle-Ages, following the time line.

Penetrate the history and mystery of plants

A tunnel leads you to the Middle-Ages, when men would cultivate near their place of life. The time line will guide you through history.

The journey through time ends in the savannah, when the first human beings used to live on hunting and picking.

Vegetable gardens were protected by twisted wooden panels, reproduced here. Consequently, the plants, as if on a display table of a museum, are more accessible.

The leaves in the woodland deaden the noises, giving way to the mystery of tales.

The orchard, symbol of the peculiar relationship between man and knowledge since the lost Eden, offers its wide range of forbidden fruit.

The garden is a great learning resource. It is a place where we not only conserve and improve biodiversity, but also produce various fruit and vegetables consumed within the Lycée.
